Dear Friends,

The announcement this past week that Pope Benedict has appointed Bishop J. Peter Sartain, formerly Bishop of Joliet, Illinois, as our new Archbishop is wonderful news for this local church. I know you will want to join me in praying for him as he prepares to assume the awesome responsibilities that will be his. Pray, too, for Archbishop Brunett as he prepares to step aside after leading this church for nearly 13 years.

May the Holy Spirit continue to guide our Church during these days of transition!

A NEW SAINT: BLESSED JOHN HENRY NEWMAN

Today, September 19, 2010, Pope Benedict XVI will beatify Venerable John Henry Newman—better known as “Cardinal Newman,” the great 19th-century writer, poet, theologian, Church leader, and convert to Catholicism. The hymns and choral motets for today all use texts by the new saint.

HEART SPEAKS TO HEART

This weekend, Pope Benedict XVI concludes his first apostolic visit to Great Britain. The theme chosen for the visit is “heart speaks to heart,” the episcopal motto of Cardinal Newman, one of the best-known and best-loved figures of English Catholicism. The high point of the Holy Father’s visit will be the beatification of Cardinal Newman in Birmingham, where Newman spent many years of fruitful ministry.

THE PATH TO SAINTHOOD

John Henry Newman was born in 1801, the son of a London banker whose bank collapsed in the economic crisis that followed the Napoleonic wars. Newman was a brilliant student, who entered Trinity College, Oxford at the age of 16. He was ordained a priest of the Anglican Church in 1825, and served as a parish priest in Oxford, while continuing to write, read, and debate as one of the most prominent intellectuals of his time.

It was his systematic reading of the Fathers of the early Church, which he began in 1830, that led Newman, along with John Keble and many others, to try to reclaim the Catholic heritage of the Anglican Church in what came to be called the Oxford Movement. Eventually, these explorations would lead Newman to the Catholic Church. He resigned his parish in 1843, and on October 9, 1845 he was received into the Catholic Church.

Newman studied for the Catholic priesthood in Rome, and was ordained in May, 1847. Within a year, with the encouragement of Pope Pius IX, he established the Oratory in Birmingham—a community of priests who would serve in parishes, teach, and live in community.

In Birmingham, Newman produced some of his most important theological works, including The Idea of a University, as well as poetry like The Dream of Gerontius (set to music by Edward Elgar). His writings on conscience, faith and reason, the development of Christian doctrine, and education have had a tremendous influence. His writings anticipated the Second Vatican Council in many ways—in fact, Newman is sometimes called “the absent Council Father.”

Newman encountered harsh criticism for his decision to become Catholic, and he responded to his critics with his autobiography, Apologia Pro Vita Sua. Newman also encountered criticism from within the Church, and his writings on conscience and papal infallibility led some to question his orthodoxy and loyalty (his famous after-dinner toast was “to conscience first, and to the Pope afterwards”). But doubters were silenced when Pope Leo XIII made Newman a Cardinal in 1879.

Newman died on August 11, 1890, and was declared Venerable by Pope John Paul II in 1991.

During the beatification ceremony today, the Holy Father will declare Newman Blessed. Then his portrait will be unveiled, relics of the saint will be brought forward in procession by members of the Newman family, and the entire assembly will give thanks in Newman’s own words:

Portrait of Newman by Sir John Everett Millais (Wikimedia Commons)

“Praise to the Holiest in the height, / And in the depth be praise: / In all his words most wonderful, / Most sure in all his ways.” Blessed John Henry Newman’s feast day will be October 9: the anniversary of his reception into the Catholic Church.

PRAYER

The liturgical prayer for Newman’s feast day echoes his own writings. His poem “Lead, Kindly Light” is probably his best-known work. The prayer also echoes the words Newman had chosen for his own tombstone, “out of shadows and images into the truth.”

O God,
who bestowed on the priest
Blessed John Henry Newman
the grace to follow your kindly light
and find peace in your Church;
graciously grant that,
through his intercession and example,
we may be led out of shadows and images
into the fullness of your truth.
Through Christ our Lord.
