Human Trafficking

OCTOBER IS RESPECT LIFE MONTH | No. 4 of 5

October 9, 2011

October is Respect Life Month. Each week we are exploring aspects of Church teaching on the full spectrum of life issues. This week, we focus on human trafficking.

What is human trafficking?

Human Trafficking is the exploitation of a person through the use of force, fraud or coercion for the purpose of forced labor or commercial sexual exploitation. Traffickers lure vulnerable people with false promises of good jobs, an education, economic security and even love. Traffickers are able to keep their victims from seeking help by confiscating identification documents, threatening violence, and subjecting the victim to physical, psychological or sexual abuse.

Human Trafficking: Key Facts

- 12.3 million people live in conditions of forced labor, bonded labor and sexual exploitation worldwide. Profits from human trafficking are estimated at $32 billion dollars .
International Labor Organization, 2009
- Approximately 800,000 people are trafficked across international borders each year.
U.S. State Dept., Trafficking in Persons (TIP) Report, 2008
- In the United States, victims of trafficking include both U.S. citizens and foreign nationals. Foreign victims are trafficked primarily to provide cheap labor in domestic servitude, agriculture, manufacturing, janitorial services, health and elder care, hair and nail salons, and strip club dancing. Most of the victims who are U.S. citizens are found in sex trafficking. Child victims are often runaway and homeless youth.

U.S. State Dept., TIP Report, 2010

What does the Church say?

The seventh commandment forbids acts or enterprises that for any reason—selfish or ideological, commercial or totalitarian—lead to the enslavement of human beings, to their being bought, sold and exchanged like merchandise, in disregard for their personal dignity. It is a sin against the dignity of persons and their fundamental rights to reduce them by violence to their productive value or to a source of profit.

Catechism of the Catholic Church, 2414

... Whatever insults human dignity, such as subhuman living conditions, arbitrary imprisonment, deportation, slavery, prostitution, the selling of women and children; as well as disgraceful working conditions, where men are treated as mere tools for profit, rather than as free and responsible persons; all these things . . are infamies indeed.

Vatican Counsel II, Gaudium et Spes, 1965

Human trafficking will never be truly defeated without eliminating the consumerism that feeds it and prosecuting those actors in receiving countries, including our own, that benefit because of the exploitation of vulnerable human beings.

U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, On Human Trafficking, 2007

What can I do to help end human trafficking?

- Attend an information session by Sr. Susan Francois following the 10:00 am and noon Masses on Sun., Oct. 9th in the Pastoral Outreach Center.

- Urge members of Congress to pass the Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act (HR 2830/ S 1301), which funds programs to create safe places for trafficking victims. Go to website: <http://capwiz.com/ipjc/home/>
- Participate in the Vigil against Human Trafficking on the first Sunday of the month: 1:30 – 2:00 pm at the Westlake Mall, sponsored by IPJC and Sisters of the Seattle Archdiocese.

Transitioning to the new Roman Missal

Part 5 in a series (Prepared by Corinna Laughlin)

October 9, 2011

Formerly called the "Opening Prayer," the Collect brings the Introductory Rites of the Mass to a close. We have gathered together as a community of faith; we have confessed our sinfulness and praised the triune God; and now this prayer, led by the priest, unites or "collects" our hopes and intentions into one short prayer to the Father.

The Collect is usually quite broad in its scope, and almost always says something about how we should "know and love God, and do good according to his will," in the words of the Catechism. We ask God to intervene in our lives, to shape us so that we can do his will in thought, word, and deed.

In the Collects for Ordinary Time, we ask God to give us the strength to do what must be done (OT 1), to grant "peace in our times" (OT 2), to "direct our actions" according to his will (OT 3), to keep us safe (OT 4), to "fashion us" by his grace (OT 6), to "keep from us... all that might harm us" (OT 9), to fill us "with holy joy" (OT 14), to give us "the grace to reject whatever is contrary to the name of Christ" (OT 15), to deepen "our sense of reverence" (OT 22). The Collects for other liturgical seasons have a different emphasis. In Advent, many of the Collects focus on being ready for Christ, "worthy to possess the heavenly kingdom" (Advent I), to "gain admittance to his company" (Advent II). In Lent, we pray to "grow in understanding" (Lent I), to be nourished inwardly with God's word (Lent II), to "hasten" towards Easter (Lent IV). The Collects of Easter emphasize our joy in the Resurrection of Christ, and our hope to participate fully in that Resurrection in heaven.

THE COLLECT (Opening Prayer)

Let us pray.

O God, who have prepared for those who love you good things which no eye can see, fill our hearts, we pray, with the warmth of your love, so that, loving you in all things and above all things, we may attain your promises, which surpass every human desire. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

Collect for the 20th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Texts of the Roman Missal, Third Edition, are copyright © 2010 by International Commission on English in the Liturgy Corporation (ICEL).

Many of the Collects have a venerable history, reaching back centuries or even millennia – for example, the collect for the Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time was first written down in a Sacramentary in the 7th century.

The Shape of the Collect

In the Roman liturgy, the Collect is a formal prayer that follows a clear and consistent pattern. First comes the invitation, "Let us pray," which is to be followed by a brief period of silent prayer. Then the Collect begins with the address, which takes many variations – in this example, it is very simple: "O God." In other Collects, we call on God as "almighty," "eternal," "ever-living." Sometimes the address is followed by an amplification, a clause which tells us more about God – here, we recall that God has "prepared for those who love you / good things which no eye can see." There is a petition – "fill our hearts... with the warmth of your love." There is a motive, suggesting why our prayer should be granted —here, because we love God "in all things and above all things." Finally, there is a result, which expresses why we are making this petition: "that we may attain your promises." The Collect concludes with a doxology, which may be simply "Through Christ our Lord," or more extended, as in the example above. In these words, which conclude not only the Collects but some of the other Mass prayers as well, we recall Jesus's words: "whatever you ask the Father in my name, he will give you" (John 16:23).
