THE INTRODUCTORY RITES

ENTRANCE

The Kingdom of God

LAUDATE DOMINUM

1. The king-dom of God is jus-tice and joy;
2. The king-dom of God is mer-cy and grace;
3. The king-dom of God is chal-lenge and choice;
4. God's king-dom is come, the gift and the goal;

For Je-sus re-stores what sin would de-stroy.
The cap-tives are freed, the sin-ners find place,
Be-lieve the good news, re-pent and re-joice!
In Je-sus be-gun, in heav-en made whole.

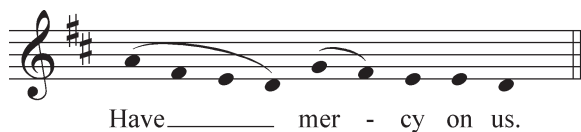

God's pow-er and glo-ry in Je-sus we know;
The out-cast are wel-come-d God's ban-quet to share;
God's love for us sin-ners brought Christ to his cross:
The heirs of the king-dom shall an-swer his call;

And hope and here - af-ter the king-dom shall grow.
And hope is a - wak-ened in place of de-spair.
Our cri-sis of judg-ment for gain or for loss.
And all things cry “Glo-ry!” to God all in all.

You we praise with one accord;
None in heav'n or earth is like you,
Only you are Christ the Lord,

PROJECT UPDATE

This week, work has begun in earnest on the exterior lighting project. Workers have been laying out control cabling in the attic of the Cathedral in preparation for installing lights in the towers. The new cabling will provide power as well as computer access to each new light (the entire lighting grid will be controlled by a new, state-of-the-art computer system). In addition, final touches are being put on a safety plan and on a critical path (or detailed timeline) for the entire project. It's on track to be completed by mid-November, with the inauguration of the lighting to take place at the beginning of the Year of Mercy, December 8.

The doors at the Marion and Terry and Columbia Street entrances to the Cathedral have already been fitted with automated door openers for those with mobility issues. Additional access improvements will be made to the Cathedral Rectory. Improved signage will also be installed around the campus in the coming weeks.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

During the week, for your safety, while work is going on in the towers, there will be no access to the west plaza of the Cathedral or to the Archbishop Murphy Courtyard. Access to the Bookstore will be via the Music Office door. We will reopen these entrances on the weekends. Keep an eye on the bulletin for details.

FUNDRAISING UPDATE

As Father Ryan mentioned in his letter in the bulletin on August 16, we are hoping to raise an additional $175,000 to meet higher-than-anticipated costs on this project. Thanks to your generosity, a remarkable $73,300 has been donated in response to this appeal.

We are still hoping to raise an additional $101,700 to cover the cost of this project. Please consider giving if you haven't done so already! You may make a one-time gift or spread out your gift over as much as three years. Gifts of any size are welcome.

If you are able to make a donation to this exciting new project, please visit www.stjames-cathedral.org or contact Maria Laughlin, 206-382-4284 or mlaughter@stjames-cathedral.org.

Exploring Catholic history in the Northwest through treasures from the past

PART 30: POSTCARDS FROM THE PERRY HOTEL

30 AUGUST 2015

The Perry Hotel opened in 1907, just a few months before St. James Cathedral. It was the first multi-story building on First Hill. In keeping with the character of the neighborhood in those days, it had plenty of pretension. The Perry was not a hotel in the usual sense of the word. It consisted of apartments where single people or entire families could live permanently, with full laundry and dining services. Some of the units even had servants' quarters! The Seattle P-I described it as a "New York Apartment house transplanted to Seattle." The 250-capacity dining room was open to the public. A menu survives for a New Year's gala in 1911, with "Crème de Volaille, Marguerite" and "Imported Duck, Rouannaise" among the sumptuous offerings.

The model of a high-end New York apartment house did not thrive in Seattle, however. The building of the Sorrento the following year cut into the Perry's market, and by 1910, the Perry was a standard hotel, focused on serving short-term visitors to the city.

Mother Cabrini returned to Seattle in 1915 in hopes of establishing a home for foundlings. After three months of looking, she narrowed her search to two buildings: the Sorrento and the Perry, but ultimately chose the latter. Of course, neither hotel was for sale. But Mother Cabrini discovered that one of the Perry's stockholders, a Mr. Clark, lived in New York City, so she quickly wrote to her community there and asked the Sisters to follow up with him. Of course, finding one particular Mr. Clark in New York was a challenge, but the Sisters were up for it. They contacted every Clark in the directory until they lighted on the right person. Once they found him, they did not let go. Even though he assured them he was not a principal stockholder, the Sisters were persistent. "I continue to be annoyed with letters, telephone calls, and visits to my office and to my house," Mr. Clark complained in a letter to Bishop O'Dea.

Mother Cabrini entrusted the cause to prayer. In the chapel at Sacred Heart Villa there was a statue of St. Anne teaching the Blessed Virgin Mary. Mother Cabrini wrote the sum she needed on the open book Mary was holding, and set the orphans to pray as well. She supplemented these acts of piety with shrewd business sense, hiring a young Henry Broderick as her agent. Eventually, persistence paid off. Broderick was able to negotiate the sale of the Perry for just $150,000 dollars. (He later waived his own commission and was "paid" by Mother Cabrini with a rosary, which was in his hands when he died many years later).

But purchasing the building was only the beginning of Mother Cabrini's troubles. The denizens of First Hill were not pleased when word got out that she was establishing a foundling home in their elegant neighborhood. Mother Cabrini suggested a hospital instead—but that idea, too, was shot down. It was a poor location for a hospital, said some, and besides, Seattle already had Providence Hospital.

Bishop O'Dea was caught. He had encouraged the purchase of the Perry, even negotiating the loan on Mother Cabrini's behalf, but now he found many of his friends opposed to the plan for an orphanage and he himself was opposed to the idea of another hospital. He wrote to Mother Cabrini: "I feel it is my duty, for the best interests of the Church in this diocese, to forbid any departure from the original purpose.... In God's name, let it be a home for foundlings." The letter arrived on the Feast of the Sacred Heart, a bitter blow to Mother Cabrini, who kept repeating: "today, the feast of the Sacred Heart!" But, confident that she was in the right, Mother Cabrini boldly questioned Bishop O'Dea's recollection of the conversation between them. "Your Grace approved in the presence of my sister, the proposal," she wrote. "After all this, I am very sorry, but Your Grace see clearly, I cannot go back no more." She then apologized for the quality of her writing, since she wrote and typed the letter without help from her secretary: "I think better and prudent not to show your letter and your changing of opinion to my Sisters."

Bishop O'Dea was not the only one opposed to the project. Many of Mother Cabrini's Seattle friends, whose generous gifts had made her previous projects possible, opposed her as well. In the midst of the struggle, Mother Cabrini prayed hard, at one point spending 18 straight hours in vigil before the Blessed Sacrament. Eventually clarity came. "It is I who have alienated the blessing of God," she told her Sisters in November. "When I shall have gone, everything will be better."

In spite of the Sisters' protests, Mother Cabrini departed for Los Angeles. Strangely, almost at once, Bishop O'Dea relented. Soon, all opposition to the project faded away. Columbus Sanatorium thrived. The old friendship between the saint and the bishop was restored. Within a few weeks of her departure, Mother Cabrini sent her Christmas blessings to Bishop O'Dea: "Are innumerable graces, heavenly embraces, that I am going to ask for your Lordship," she wrote in her characteristic broken English. "The sincere wishes of my grateful heart for a Merry Christmas and a bright, prosperous New Year."

Mother Cabrini's own life was drawing to a close. She died the following year, on December 22, 1917. Upon her death, Bishop O'Dea wrote: "She was the valiant woman.... Probably no daughter of Holy Mother Church in the present century has accomplished so much in so short a time for the honor and glory of God and the salvation of souls as Mother F. X. Cabrini."

WINTER SHELTER

*"Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or see you thirsty and give you drink?
When did we welcome you or clothe you?" The King will answer them: "I assure you, as often as you did it for the least of my brothers and sisters, you did it for me." Matthew 25:37-40*

The 2015 One Night Count found 3,772 people sleeping outdoors on the streets of King County.

St. James Cathedral partners with St. Martin de Porres Shelter to provide overflow sleeping space during the cold winter months.

St. Martin de Porres, a program of Catholic Community Services, has room for 212 homeless men.

During the winter, St. Martin's is always full and has to turn away many people.

From October through April, Friday night through Monday night,

St. James provides a warm and safe place to sleep in Cathedral Hall for 10-14 men.

New and Returning Volunteers Encouraged to Come!

Welcome Back

Faith is not a light which scatters all our darkness, but a lamp which guides our steps in the night and suffices for the journey.

Pope Francis

Have you drifted away from your Catholic faith? Are you disillusioned by what you hear about your Church? Do you desire a life filled with faith?

St. James Cathedral offers "Welcome Back," a 12-week parish program for Catholics out of touch with a Church that once may have been home. It's a safe place to ask questions, learn about changes in the Church, and begin to experience a small community of faith. If you desire, we'll help you return to the sacraments, and move towards becoming an active part of the faith community.

The fall program begins Monday, September 21, and continues Mondays through early December. Sessions are held 7:00 – 9:00 pm in Cathedral Place, 803 Terry Avenue.

COME AND SEE!

..... a one-hour time set aside for you to come and ask questions about the Cathedral "Welcome Back" program. Rosanne and team will be present to answer questions, listen to your needs, and help in whatever way we can. Sunday, August 16 or Sunday, September 13, following the 10:00am Mass! Meet in Cathedral Place, 803 Terry Ave

For more information, without any obligation, contact Rosanne Michaels at 206.654.4658 or rmichaels@stjames-cathedral.org.
